Italy Lacked Heart To Help Nazis

Local Soldier In Sicily Tells Of Friendliness Of Prisoners Toward U.S.

After observing the "enthusiasm and vigor" with which Italian prisoners of war worked for their Yankee captors in Sicily, Capt. C. R. Schwartz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Preston M. Schwartz, is convinced that the hearts of the Italian people were not in the war as allies of the Germans. Their friendliness toward Americans caused Schwartz to look upon the invasion of Italy by the Allied Nations "with encouragement". Stationed with the Army Medical Corps in Africa during that campaign, Capt. Echwartz moved on into Sicily. A letter just received from him "somewhere" in the liberated island tells of the joy he experienced at being able to live in any sort of building after living in tents many months in Africa. He wrote as follows:

"During the Sicilan campaign we set up our hospital in buildings which previously had been many times bombed. (Army buildings were more than welcome after many months in tents in Africa).

"Although we began receiving patients our first evening in these structures, there was still much work to be done in clearing out debris, shifting equipment around, bracing sagging ceilings etc. For this work we were assigned a large group of Italian prisoners of war. After watching them work with enthusiasm and vigor, day in and day out, under the hot sun I could not help but think that these men could have put up a much stiffer battle had their hearts been in it.

The respect and friendliness shown by these people for the Americans makes me look forward with encouragement to the Italian campaign — whenever it may come."

Report Phil Carter Shot Near Pine Knot At Big Bear

A report from Pine Knot at Big Bear Lake that Phil Carter, son of Sierra Madre's founder, had been shot over the heart and was sent to a San Bernardino hospital in a critical condition, took his sister, Mrs. Julia Henszey, to the latter city Tuesday.

The word reaching here was that Mr. Carter, employed as a watchman at the Big Bear dam, west of Pine Knot, had been attacked by a former watchman who bore a grudge against his victim. Details of the shooting were lacking.

Mr. Carter, a resident here all his life until several years ago when he sold his Sierra Madre home, formerly conducted two camps in the Big Bear Valley. After selling them he operated a gas station in the valley which became unproductive with the advent of gas and tire rationing and a falling off in patronage at the San Barnardino mountain resorts. He then took the watchman job. His assailant is said to have been his predecessor at the dam.

Memorial Service Held For Mother Of Local Author

Memorial services were held at the Church of the Ascension at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning for Mrs. Elizabeth Page, mother of Miss Elizabeth Page, author of the famed "Tree of Liberty". Rev. John S. Neal, Ascension rector officiated.

Mrs. Page, 82 years old and the daughter of a Presbyterian minister, died Friday morning at her home, 153 S. Hermosa ave., after a long illness. She was born at Cornwall-on-the-Hudson, N. Y. Her husband was a member of the New York State Senate and later a judge of the State Supreme Court. During World War 1 she organized the Bronx Surgical Dressing Center and the Henry Street Settlement for nurses. She came to Sierra Madre with her author daughter, Elizabeth, ten years ago.

Besides Miss Elizabeth, Mrs. Page is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Bennet Schauffler, and three grandchildren.

Program For School Year Outlined

New Superintendent Tells Teaching Staff Of Its Responsibilities

An educational program to be followed at the grammar school here was presented to the 20 members of the teaching staff Friday at a conference with H. F. Korsmeier, the new superintendent-principal, at which the year's activities were discussed. Advising the teachers of the responsibility they would assume when school opened Monday morning, Mr. Korsmeier said:

"The educational program of the school this coming year, more than in any generation in history, has a great challenge to give to the children an understanding of a common past, a sense of a common future, and the mastery of the tools and implements of a common life which they necessarily must have if they are going to maintain a just peace and preserve the things for which this war is fought.

"In preparing the children to become the citizens of the future, the place of good character and citizenship in a society must be emphasized, because for one step forward in knowledge, three must be taken in self-perfection. Since all knowldege is a form of power, the world would be saved many a trouble if those who had power could free themselves from the baser thoughts and emotions.

"In preparing the youth to live in a democracy they must have a practical working knowledge of the necessary tools of earning a livelihood, namely, reading, language, and arithmetic; an understanding of their national heritage and environment; the development of a good character, and a desire to be respected citizens of a community."

Mr. Korsmeier emphasized that it is of utmost importance that the material presented to the pupils be meaningful to them, that children must be physically and mentally ready for the task at hand, that the learning experience must be interesting to the learner, and that there must be much supervised practice in the fundamentals necessary for the development of the whole child.

School Children To Share War Effort By Buying Jeeps

During the last school semester, the U. S. Treasury Department asked patriotic school children of the Nation through extra effort to purchase sufficient War Stamps to buy 10,000 Jeeps for the armed forces. The California quota was 755. An indication of the patriotic spirit and the "know how" of school students was reflected in the final result which showed that 650 public, private and parochial schools quadrupled their quota by purchasing 3195 Jeeps.

A single job campaign for all southland schools has been announced by Vierling Kersey, chairman of the "Schools-at-War" education committee. The new "triple-threat" Jeep Campaign includes the regular Army Jeep at 1165, the Amphibian Jeep known as the "quack" at $2090, and the Flying Jeep of the air called the "grasshopper" at $3000, a grand total of $6255; all of which the individual school or a classroom may undertake to provide for the armed forces through the purchase of War Stamps and Series "E" War Bonds.

All schools entering the "triple-threat" campaign will receive four 12x14 inch water color prints in colors of Army Jeeps in action, all suitable for framing.

First Aid Class For Defense Workers Being Organized

The local Red Cross Chapter is now offering a 20-hour course, a required course in first aid for defense workers. This is for all members of the various groups who have not a Red Cross certificate or who wish to repeat the course. If necessary several classes of reasonable size will be organized. The first meeting will be on Wednesday, October 6, at Red Cross headquarters. H. W. Difley is the instructor. Those who should take the course will register at once or at the first meeting of the class on October 6.

A Substitute for Hell

Somewhere in New Guinea these wounded soldiers await evacuation. Flat on their backs, in the steaming heat of the jungle, where mosquitoes plague the air and ants and mosquitoes torment weary bodies, they dream of home . . . of clean white sheets and the touch of cool, comforting hands. You can help provide modern hospitals and the medicines they need for their recuperation by putting every dollar you can into War Bonds during the Third War Loan.

Many Pupils Here Sign Up For Work

Take Advantage Of "4-4" Plan Offered By The Pasadena Schools

More than a third of the Sierra Madre students enrolled at Pasadena Junior College and other Pasadena schools are already listed for employment under the "4-4" plan evolved by Dr. John A. Sexson, Pasadena school superintendent. Under the plan pupils between the ages of 14 and 18 years may meet the legal requirements for school attendance by attending school from 4 to 20 hours a week, according to age, permitting them to accept positions in stores, laundries, restaurants, shops or defense plants for from 28 to 44 hours of each week, according to age.

Dr. Sexson explained the "4-4" plan to a meeting of employers and parents Friday like this:

"Youths 14 and 15 years of age may meet school requirements by attending school 20 hours per week, leaving them free for 28 hours of employment.

"Youths 16, 17 and 18 years of age, may meet the legal requirements by attending school four hours per week, leaving 44 hours for employment, but in so doing they make little or no school progress and can enroll in no courses that prepare for college and few that will meet graduation requirements.

"They should, if at all possible, attend school 20 hours a week and work 28. If they do this, they may graduate in regular time and meet all educational requirements."

School Attendance Reflects Increase In Population

Five hundred ninety eight children flocked back to the local schools with their reopening Monday morning; 480 to the grammar and 118 to St. Rita's parochial school. The grammar school enrollment showed an increase of 37 pupils over the opening day of last year, reflecting the increase in local population. The number of pupils at both schools is expected to further increase with the return of boys and girls now helping solve the man power shortage by harvesting fall crops.

Training Of Local O C D Begins

Civilian defense training has begun by the local OCD organizations with the special-duty course in emergency care intended for doctors, nurses, and first-aid medical auxiliary personnel. This is a ten-hour course, taught by Mrs. R. A. Pratt under the supervision of Dr. W. B. Heagerty. The first meeting was held last night in the Congregational Church.

Other special-duty courses for O.C.D. personnel will be organized later in the month under direction of F. L. Whitney, chief training officer.

Woman's Club Will Honor Newcomers At Meeting Wednesday

New residents of Sierra Madre and old officers and members of the Woman's Club will be guests of honor at the season's first meeting of the Woman's Club at 2 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon, September 22. The public is cordially invited to attend and the many newcomers to the city will be doubly welcome.

Mrs. Percy Kortkamp, program chairman, has arranged a program she believes will interest everyone. It features Lynn Shannon, widely known dramatic impersonator whose wardrobe consists of more than 40 costumes used in the impersonation of as many noted people and characters.

Announcement was made by the club officers yesterday that a concert is being scheduled for Friday, October 1, at which Miss Moreland Kortkamp, just returned from four years of study under America's most noted piano instructors in New York, will be presented.

Librarian Tells What Fighting Men Most Want To Read

The newspaper is probably the reading material most widely demanded by service men, says Miss Alice J. Gardwood, assistant librarian, Second Service Command.

In an article on "reading interests of service men" in the current issue of the New York Branch Library Book News, Miss Gardwood said that HOME TOWN PAPERS ARE REQUESTED MOST OFTEN.

The unabridged dictionary is the most popular book in Army libraries, the article said.

With Sierra Madre Boys In Service

The rank of sergeant, a diploma, the silver wings of a gunner-technician-sergeant and a listing as "qualified expert aeiral triggerman" all went to Arthur Terhorst, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Terhorst of 209 W. Laurel avenue, at the Harlingen (Texas) Army Air Field on Friday when he graduated there after six weeks of intensive training. He may be held at the field temporarily, but is destined to depart in a few days to join a combat crew aboard a U. S. bomber. Before learning to "double in gunnery", he completed a course in aerial mechanics with training in radio and learned to fire every type weapon from BB guns to calibre .50 Brownings. . . . On the day that Arthur graduated at Harlingen Field his brother, Julius, recently recovered from a broken ankle, signed up for the Navy at the Pasadena recruiting office and is waiting the call to the San Diego training station.

Dinner Adds $36,000 To 3rd War Fund

Sierra Madre's First $20-a-plate Effort Is An Outstanding Success

Sierra Madre's first dinner at $20 a plate was a success beyond the fondest dreams of its sponsor, the Kiwanis Club. It raised $36,000 for the government's Third War Loan campaign and scores of townspeople who wanted to buy a War Bond for $18.75 and pay $1.25 for the dinner had to be turned away for lack of accomodations. Applications were received for more than 200 reservations and only 115 places were available.

Co-operation of the Southern California Edison Co., Southern Counties Gas Co. and the Safeway Stores helped materially to bring up the War Loan total. These companies turned in to the Kiwanis Club a large proportion of the bond subscriptions of their employees residing here instead of sending them in to the Los Angeles fund.

Mr. Alspach and Mr. Reib were introduced at the dinner by President Harry Lange of the club who turned over to them the organization's contribution to the drive. Also introduced was Amos DuBois, lieutenant governor of the 10th Kiwanis district.

Principal speaker of the evening was Prof. Francis L. Daugherty, principal of the Lincoln school, Los Angeles, who warned that in America's eagerness to win the war and quickly, there was danger that two of America's most cherished ideals may be sacrificed. Employment of women, especially mothers, and boys and girls of tender years is at the cost of the home life necessary to produce the sort of men and women the nation has always boasted. And the high ideal of service is likely to be lost sight of.

Relating some incidents of juvenile delinquency that had come to his own attention, Prof. Daugherty said the problem was a responsibility of the church, the school and the home. He was introduced by Dr. John L. Woehler.

At a session of the Kiwanians before the dinner the resignation of Carl Hansen as a director was received and Bruce McGill was elected in his stead. Henry F. Korsmeier, new school superintendent, was elected a member of the club.

Sgt. George "Russ" Lovejoy, home on furlough from the battlefront in New Guinea, was invited to attend the dinner as a guest of honor, but was ordered to report in San Francisco Tuesday and was unable to attend.

Newspapers May Be Sent Service Men As Christmas Gifts

Postal authorities have for a period of 30 days set aside the requirement that newspaper subscriptions to Army personnel overseas must be confirmed by a request in writing from the addressee. Purpose is to encourage sending of papers overseas as Christmas gifts from friends and relatives. However, the prohibition against publishers sending free copies remains unchanged.

Publishers are permitted to accept bona fide subscribers between September 15 and October 15 without a letter or an authorization from the soldier that such publication is wanted. Publishers may notify by mail the person for whom the subscription is entered advising that a paid subscription has been entered as a Christmas gift. Army regulations frown upon the receipt of unsolicited newspapers and complimentary merchandise.

Christmas gift subscriptions may be sent for the complete period for which payment is made. Orders for overseas shipments must be recorded by the October 15 deadline to qualify for the endorsement on all wrappers "mailed in conformity with POD Order No. 19687." The order applies only to Army personnel stationed abroad.

Bond Quota Over Third Subscribed

Door To Door Campaign By Block Mothers Will Begin Here On Sunday

More than a third of Sierra Madre's $165,000 Third War Loan quota had been raised by noon yesterday. Subscriptions totaled $57,500, of which $21,500 was reported by G. L. Alspach and Dan Reib of the local War Bond committee and $36,000 by the Kiwanis Club as a result of its War Bond dinner at the Masonic Temple Tuesday evening.

A gratifying feature of the campaign to date, the committee announced yesterday, is the number of small subscriptions being made by housewives and men and women employed in defense industries. A particular effort has been made to interest them in the present campaign as the number participating in the 2nd War Loan and in the Cruiser Los Angeles campaigns was disappointingly small. Many of the local citizens who have subscribed most generously in previous bond campaigns had not been approached until yesterday, causing the committee to believe that no great difficulty will be experienced in meeting the largest quota yet assigned the city when the house to house canvass gets under way.

The door to door campaign will be undertaken by the Block Mothers organization headed by Mrs. W. R. Dedrick, Jr., and will begin Sunday, Sept. 19. Each member will canvass the territory asigned her in her capacity as a member of the Civilian Defense Corps. The city's quota is due to be raised by Sept. 30, when the campaign is scheduled to end.

City To Buy $10,000 More War Bonds

At the first city council meeting to be presided over by Mayor John Froehlich the council Tuesday evening authorized the investment of $10,000 more of city funds in U.S. War Bonds. Ten $1,000 bonds will be purchased.

Notice was received from the county supervisors that $2,294.65 had been allocated Sierra Madre out of the county's gasoline tax fund for the maintenance and repair of city streets. Similar allocations have been impounded because of the inability to secure materials, though crews are patching up some of the streets in preparation for the winter rains.

Because it is impossible to buy a new Ford car for the police department the council authorized purchase of another make at an increase of $275 over the amount set up in the budget for the purpose.

Election of Robert Smith as an auxiliary city fireman was approved.

Mother Has No Word Of Sons Reported Death In Jap Camp

A report that his family was officially advised John Ropp, Jr., a former resident of Sierra Madre, had died in a Japanese prison camp was not confirmed last night by his mother, Mrs. John Ropp, Sr., now a resident of Glendale. Contrary to the rumor that had gained wide circulation here, Mrs. Ropp said she had received no such word from either the War or Navy Departments. Ropp was working on electrical installations at Wake Island when it was captured by the Japs. He was taken prisoner along with civilian employees and Army personnel.

Rangers Complain Of Fire Hazard On City's Property

Leasees of cabins on city owned property at Roberts Camp have been summoned to appear before the city council at a meeting on September 28 to answer a complaint by the U. S. Forest Service that the city is permitting a serious fire hazard to exist at the camp. Forest Rangers have been invited to attend the meeting to suggest methods of correcting the conditions complained of.

Retired Oklahoma Oil Man To Build Sierra Madre Home

Back now in Tulsa, Okla., where he has been manager of the land department of the Texas Oil Co. for many years, J. H. Flanagan is closing up his affairs there preparatory to returning to Sierra Madre to make his home. He and Mrs. Flanagan left here for Oklahoma late last week after having had a delightful visit with Mrs. Flanagan's sister, Mrs. Catherine Cameron of 105 S. Hermosa ave. They have been more or less regular visitors here for 18 years, and charmed by the city's beauty and its climate, have long promised themselves that when Mr. Flanagan retired they would build a home here. Now that Mr. Flanagan has retired they propose to keep the promise. Building the home they have in mind is out of the question until the war is over, but they have their eye on a cosy spot that will answer the purpose until that time. Mr. Flanagan is a former Pennsylvanian—from McKean County.

A Social Evening For Church Folks

Newcomers to Sierra Madre will be welcomed at a get-together meeting of members of the Congregational Church in Pritchard Hall to-morrow (Friday) evening at 8 o'clock. "Jimmy's over there now, fighting our enemies to keep the Stars and Stripes flying.

"Before he left, he told me they are going to need more equipment, more ammunition and more food for INVASION of enemy lands.

"'The more bonds the folks at home buy—the more they'll be helping us fighters to win.' That's what Jimmy said."

The 3rd War Loan of 15 billion dollars must produce the money to pay for these essentials to victory.

Buy at least one EXTRA $100 Bond besides your regular bond purchases—many will have to invest thousands!

Don't think that what you do isn't important. It will take all every individual in America can raise to put this 3rd War Loan over the top. So buy more bonds out of your pay—out of extra income—out of "rainy-day" funds!

The quicker you do that the more you'll help Jimmy and our other boys smash through to Victory.

What do you say? It's the safest, soundest investment you'll ever make!

Let's go!

Falsehoods not only disagree with truths, but usually quarrel among themselves.

NO COMPROMISE

Lieutenant Governor Fred Houser is concerned with the possible development of a movement in sections of the United States to make a compromise peace with Japan after victory over Germany, in return for the restoration of our seized possessions. He warns:

"There has always been a feeling in the eastern part of the United States that California has had a phobia against the Japanese. I predict that after Germany has been disposed of, a movement may start in the east and middle west to call off the war with Japan if they give us back our possessions."

With Italy and Germany vanquished, the plight of Japan will be dark, indeed. The robots of Tojo will confront the combined might of the military establishments of the United Nations arrayed against them in overwhelming force.

Faced with this prospect, Japan obviously will try every diplomatic and propaganda wile to avoid crushing defeat and unconditional surrender. She will do everything possible to retain enough power to make another start on aggression when she again feels the time propitious. Undoubtedly she will offer to disgorge some of the profits of her present venture. American ears will be assaulted with her specious pleas for peace, and the government of Tojo may even be sacrificed as evidence of Japan's spiritual rebirth.

But regardless of such overtures, the nature of the Japanese military will remain unchanged. The lust for domination which led to the invasion of China and the attack at Pearl Harbor will not be elfminated by the kind of peace that Houser warns will be attempted.

It did not take Pearl Harbor to awaken California to the menace of Japan. Years before the sneak attack on that American bastion in the Pacific, California learned and warned that there could be no compromise with the Japanese buzz-saw without losing a finger or an arm. The United States lost more than that at Pearl Harbor.

The stake in the war with Japan is more than the return of our seized possessions. It is more than vengeance for the murdered aviators who accompanied Doolittle on the raid on Tokyo. It is more than retribution for Pearl Harbor.

The objective is lasting peace in the Pacific. And that can be achieved only by beating Japan to her knees, to unconditional surrender. It cannot be accomplished by compromise.

WHAT COMES AFTER?

Business has taken its coat off and approached the job of post-war planning in its shirt-sleeves. Some of the problems being tackled and the questions for which answers are sought were voiced recently by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of General Motors Corporation.

They mainly concern the willingness of government to allow the free enterprise system to provide jobs and opportunities for those who need them and seek them.

To begin with, says Mr. Sloan, business-men want to know whether the government will withdraw its war-bloated camel from the tent of private business. He points out that "the government has invested eight to ten billion dollars in war plants." And he adds: "We have the right to know whether they are to be used against us, with government subsidies or made available to us."

This question affects every business regardless of size, for if the government retains control of the commanding heights of industry — the basic industries — it is but a question of time until the control is widened to engulf little business as well.

Another question bothering Mr. Sloan and others is how any industry can reconvert for peacetime production if the government refuses to allow reserves to finance such conversion. The problem is as important to little business as to the big fellows. Conversion will require more money than is left after taxes are paid—and "without enough financial seed there can be no adequate harvest of post-war jobs and opportunities".

Mr. Sloan sees post-war planning as a conflict between the "producers and the spenders". By "producers" he means the productive forces in the nation—industry, labor and agriculture—united against the non-productive forces within government opposed to continuation of the free enterprise system. Mr. Sloan sums up his remarks with the question: "After the war—what?"

The Executive Committee of the AFL recently asked the same question substantially and came up with an answer in favor of free enterprise.

Both industry and labor may find themselves allies in the post-war world fighting the encroachment of government.

UNCENSORED

By LEONE BAXTER

By LEONE BAXTER

On the cocktail table of a gracious lady recently we saw a copy of "A Modern Economic History", and a bright dust-jacket announced this was its 6th printing. The room was full of charming women and the book on the cocktail table had been read by enough of them to make conversation more than once during the afternoon.

It occurred to this writer that a decade or so ago people generally werren't reading enough economics to furnish an eyeful of conversation. Such books didn't go to 6th printings. Psychology and diet fads, yes; self improvement books and much cynical fiction. But politics, history and economics were extensively unplumbed by women meeting at cocktails or tea.

Wide open as an unlatched pocketbook and absorbent as a sponge are the minds of women today on such matters. The junior college lass in the zoot sweater with a flower stuck in her hair often knows more facts about the world's current economic set-up than that grim-faced school-mistress who taught her dad the dates of ancient conquests and crusades knew about hers.

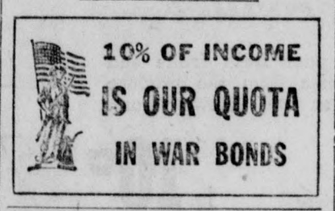

Today's women want to know about their own current world—the world they live in. For the consternation of those men who still live with the delusion that when three or more women get together it's bound to be a feminine gossip-fest, here is a partial review of a rather amazing schedule that San Francisco Bay area women will slake their thirsty minds on as guests of that city's business and professional women on September 18 and 19.

To explore the subject: "What kind of world do you want to live in?" World figures have been brought together to give a thundering preview of the possibilities—figures that often have lit the scene for international meetings of minds.

Samples: Dr. Frank Munk, former chairman Czechoslovakia League of Nations Foundation, author, graduate of Prague University. Dr. Graham Stuart, chairman Inter-American Affairs Institute sponsored by Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, Board of Economic Warfare consultant, Pan-American Conference delegate. Dr. Harold Fisher, former member American Relations Administration in Russia, vice chairman Hoover Library on War, Revolution and Peace.

Dr. Francis Herrick, International Relations Institute. Dr. Aurealia Henry Reinhardt, Institute of Pacific Relations, National Economy League, Mills College. Dr. Samuel S. May, delegate to international conferences in Paris, Berlin, London, Warsaw.

Great names that easily might ring any great iternational rostrum! If that is the type of world thinking being explored and tested by women today, apprehension need not be great as to women's contribution to the world of tomorrow!

The.... Watch Tower

By Perley Poore Sheehan

AGAIN WE wonder, when the spell of the night is on us, if there isn't a new sort of blasphemy abroad in the world. This blame poured out on poor humanity! We wonder when we listen to the crickets; when the moonlight in the room is—"rich, and like a lily in bloom." Do you remember how it was in the Leigh Hunt poem about Abou Ben Adhem? Only one angel there when he awoke. With a little imagination the world now beomes a world of angels—just beginning, on the way, nearing a timeless consummation. This world God's assembly line. Mass production. Of angels. The Virgin Spirit ever at its Dawn—selfless, innocent, pure, without any knowledge, with no endowment but that of the Eternal Life, called the Primal Cause, the Uncreate, from which it sprung; ever nearing perfection. And who are we—we wonder—to rail at the Lord's unfinished work! Wouldn't this be blasphemy?

LET'S FOLLOW a little further along the assembly line. See where the Light-Germ of the future soul starts now on this infinte round of Creation—the brainless, painless, seraphic Adam of the legendary Eden before "the Fall." This is the beginning of that Fall, the very beginning of Creation—Virgin Ore now carried along by the Creative Will deeper and deeper into the vast dark caverns and clamor of the Mills called Life. Seething oceans when there is no land—land thrust up into quivering continents—continents that will be beaten like iron, melted, recast, frozen, clothed at last by forest, peopled by mammoth creatures of appetite and by seraphic souls still unbodied and "ufallen." But, in each of these, regardless—in everything—in all—that original spark of Divinity without which NOTHING IS.

THE SPARK which is the Christ in everything — in rock, bush, snake, and bull; in—let's not dodge—in every human brute, from Tokio to Berlin, or Berlin to Folsom. Still, who shall say that it is the "sin" of these that made them what they are! Hidden within them there still is the Spark that brought them into being—by a Virgin Birth—generated by the ONE—"and there is none else;" nourished and advanced along the Life Line by the unfailing Power of that emanation from the Generator—the ever-flowing and infinite power of the Holy Ghost. Is there, then, no "sin"—no "punishment" for sin? Sure, and, in time, don't we know it! The burnt finger of the child who touches the stove. Call "sin" the lack of awareness—even as a rock in the middle of the Mojave, for all its age-long buffeting from hot and cold, sand and wind, still sleeps unaware of its Divinity awaiting fulfillment. So has man—says Browning in his poem called "A Grammarian's Funeral,"—"Man has forever!"

QUO VADIS — Whither goest thou? Ask the crickets; ask the stars; ask the angel host, so we believe, as yet unborn to this world of burnt fingers where all of us become aware to some extent. So help us, Lord, if we hear wrong! But all, all, seem to make the same reply. Tomorrow we may doubt, as so often men doubt their dreams and visions of the night. But now we feel no doubt. This is their reply, as spoken long ago by the Spirit of Truth then working in St. Paul: "Seeking him—feeling after him—the Lord—in whom we live and move and have our being." Do you remember what St. Paul then said to the pagan, the un-Christian Greeks—just as one of our latter-day prelates might well have said yesterday to the "Godless Russians"? This: "As certain of your own poets have said, "For we also are his offspring."

GOD'S WORK, everything that is. Moon-madness, maybe; but there it is: out of Holy Writ. And here in the silence of the night—a silence like that which must have been before the Mills of Infinity began to turn, before the thunder of Mass-Creation got under way—it all seems right: sin, suffering, hell and heaven, all equally from God; and the sooner we accept it as right, and stop blaming God's unfinished angels for their imperfect state, the sooner will the world emerge from this painful Shop into a Better One. . . .

WE'VE HEARD the preachers call this war both sin and hell. We've heard them imploring sinners to seek God's grace before it is too late. We've heard them—yea, even today—repeating phrases about man's salvation coming alone through the Blood of the Lamb. Brother, sister, we've seen the Lamb, by the eye of the Spirit in this moonlight—"rich, and like the lily in bloom;" we've seen the Lamb multiplied a million and a million times—there on all the broad bivouacs and battlefields of this War, in every lonely home where someone is missing. No matter where. Everywhere. God's work—we're doing it. The whole wide world an altar of bloody sacrifice. The Lamb is God—and that means all of us, as Time runs out—and his work is perfect. Even we. We have—forever!

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Mat

"The Doughgirls" In Pasadena Soon

"The Doughgirls", the play that has had the country rocking with laughter ever since it opened at the Lyceum theater in New York, will come to Pasadena Civic Auditorium Thursday evening, September 23, for one performance only. A story about three smart, fast-thinking girls who move in on wartime Washington, adding romance to all the other problems of the crowded capital, the play was written by Joseph Fields after he had gone to Washington in hopes of getting a job. Bowled over by red-tape and all the ensuing frustrations, he left without the job but with an idea for "The Doughgirls".

What They Say ---

Corp. Edw. Harper, Camp Roberts, Attu, veteran—"Strange as it may seem, the men who made the first landing at Holtz Bay went into battle cutting up and singing. The flying steel didn't stop their jokes."

Max Dickmann, Argentine visitor here—"Americans are terribly hard workers! There seems to be no relaxation, mentally or physically in this country."

Dr. Bertha Monroe, educator—"You know perfectly well that when you wear slacks you walk, stand and act differently. The 'overall manner' gets women involved in situations they never got in before."

"KEEP 'EM ROLLING"

THE RAILROADS ARE THE BACKBONE OF OFFENSE

The London radio reports that a motor convoy has completed an "impossible" 4000 mile journey from Belgian Congo to Cairo. The trip took many weeks, but experts had predicted it could not be done at all. Several previous expeditions had tried to find an overland supply route to reach Belgian troops in the Middle East, but this was the first success. The leader of the convoy received his orders to make the trip only 48 hours before the start. He had no maps nor any opportunity for preliminary observation. In spite of this, the caravan plunged into the uncharted and trackless wastes of the Dark Continent and completed the mission without losing a man or a machine. After victory, new roads will be built in Africa. It may be that a Congo-to-Cairo highway will follow the route laid out by these intrepid explorers.

In case you didn't know, California struggles along with 30,850 employes, and does fairly well at that. But the federal government has 232,500 employed in our Golden State. Wonder what goes on?

* * *

Forty-nine elementary school districts in California, employing a total of 2,487 teachers report that no teachers have resigned to go to war industries. Forty-two districts, with a teaching faculty of 1,717, reported 140 teachers have gone into war industries. Forty-six elementary districts report no serious shortage of teachers anticipated. Forty-one expected shortages, with several stating that shortages were in special fields, such as music, manual training, and men teachers for the elementary schools.

Only twenty-four of the elementary districts were paying a starting salary as low as the $1,500 legal minimum. All except ten have already given special war bonuses on teachers salaries ranging from $25 to $200 a year, and one with a $450 a year bonus. Of the seventy-seven high school districts reporting, twenty-seven districts, employing 985 teachers, reported no resignations to go into war industries.

Bad news for the Axis was the recent announcement that an improved process of shell-making enables American war plants to turn out six 155mm. shells from the same quantity of steel which formerly produced only five of the same size. The new principle has already saved an estimated 28,000 tons of steel in the plants which developed the process and made it available to industry generally. That alone would be enough steel to build 1,380 freight cars to ease the present heavy strain on America's transportation systems.

Glenn D. Willaman, whose vocation is real estate, but whose avocation is delving into political lore, comes up with this bit of "strange but true" information: California has had only 5 native son Govenors! Ohio, "the home of Presidents", has frunished 5 of California's Governors, too—and New York State 6. Wonder what's the matter with our native born citizenry?

Sierra Madre Woman Assigned To Navy Job At San Diego

Miss Dorothy Johnson of this city, who recently completed an intensive training at Red Cross headquarters at Washington, D.C., has been appointed as a recreational worker assigned to the U.S. Naval Hospital at San Diego.

Miss Johnson has resided with her sister, Mrs. Florence Wilhelmi of this city. She attended Colorado State College of Education, has taught school in Iowa, Colorado, Ontario, Calif., and has been active in Girl Scout work.

Marine's Mascot Is Here On Furlough

Sgt. Dutch, an Army trained bull of pit extraction and thoroughly looking the part, is at least a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Floyd on Mountain Trail ave. Calvin, their son, hopes he has come to stay. A few days ago, Calvin and his dad were watching a contingent of soldiers train bound at the Union Station in Los Angeles. Sudden excitement and commotion among the men disclosed an argument between an officer and soldiers. A husky cannine with large round, dark, sad eyes was the bone of contention.

Originally an Army mascot, the dog had been adopted by the Marines, whose dogged determination to keep him was of no avail. The Marine and police officers explained something to the effect, that because they were going into combat duty, the dog could not tag along. That is how Dutch fell into the Floyd hands—on furlough, perhaps to stay, depending on whether the postman brings word from the former owner to the contrary.

FIRE FLAMES

By One of the Boys

By a test of one of the new O.C.D. fire fighting units last drill night ,we found it quite a pump and something that the town really needs. A brand new engine was to us like a boy with a toy and to see the big stream of water it forced thru the hose was the cause of much joy.

There is still an uncertainty as to how many men will attend the firemen's State convention. Joe Swanson, "Shorty" Steinberger and Jim Heasley are going via the Southern Pacific. If there is no other way available, arrangements have been made so that these determined fellows may ride on the cowcatcher. Or, because of their experience, these three could ride the rods.

It is encouraging the way the auxiliary members of the fire department apply themselves to the work. Most of them are as capable as our active members. It is hoped that when the time comes an auxiliary is no more needed, these fellows will continue to be interested. They are natural replacements for older fellows as they retire.

The men of the fire department received the sad news of the death of Benny Lyon with deep regret and extend their sincere sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Lyon. Most of us knew Benny as a mere boy and felt as tho' he was one of us.

Visitor Finds Ranch Community He Knew 40 Years Ago Is Modern City Now

Here from the Everglades of Florida, where he lives, H. H. Hart is getting a big kick out out of a visit to Sierra Madre as the guest of Capt. and Mrs. E. G. Everett of Vista Circle drive. In the 40 years since he was here Sierra Madre has grown from a sparsely settled ranch community into a modern city that Mr. Hart finds so beautiful and attractive in many ways that he thinks he'll probably make his home here. Of course he didn't know the place when he arrived.

When he was here last, Sierra Madre Canyon was Carter's Camp, a resort operated by the city's founder, N. C. Carter. Mr. Hart was a visitor at the camp then and during his stay Mr. Carter was advised by his physician to go to a much higher altitude—to Big Bear. There were no roads through that part of the San Bernardino mountains then, only trails, and the trip was a long one ,made by packing in. Carter induced Mr. Hart to manage his camp during the two months he was gone and he had a royal and profitable time in this capacity. He had come in a large touring car which he turned to good account by taking camp visitors and tourists on sight seeing trips at $4.50 an hour. There were few automobiles then and few people knew how to drive cars they longed to own. So Mr. Hart taught them at so much per teach. He did a good business and had lots of fun.

He left his Florida home late in April and was due at the Everett home here early in May, but arrived only early last week because he came leisurely and stopped to visit sisters in New Mexico. And when he finally arrived he found the Everett home had been sold and the family was packing up to move—it didn't know where, because it hadn't been able to find a place to move into.

SIERRA MADRE HARDWARE CO.

How A Community Paper Impresses School Teacher

BY CATHERYN ELLIOTT

Personalities: urbane, gentle, sincere, gleaming with the inner light of experience, of understanding, of helpfulness, of real desire to live and help live; that is my deepest impression of a community newspaper, and particularly of Sierra Madre's own hometown newspaper, after having spent the summer as a member of the staff of the Sierra Madre News.

A task to be done, a task that is a joy in itself, that is a means of livelihood ,that is part of the great world effort, that is a vital part of the life of the little suburban city; that is another deep impression.

Loyalty: to one's own ideals, to the best needs of the community one serves, to one's knowledge of the demands of the situation at hand, and of the practical methods of meeting those demands; to the unacknowledged and often carefully concealed feeling of responsibility for the educational needs of the community; to the 'deep feelings of reserve and of pride inherent in the human breast; loyalty to one's own teachings under severe masters through long years of apprenticeship; loyalty to the needs of the community as a whole, taking a sweeping view of families, of beliefs, of cultural ideals, of spiritual desires; being loyal to all, fair to all, interested in all, serving all—that is another deep impression.

Humor: the very funny things that happen when any two or more peope gather for any reason, and the play of personalities touches the sad, the prosaic, and the gay. The woman who is incensed at the mistake in an address that the laboring reporter has searched fruitlessly for an hour to get right. The person who cannot understand why his "want ad" cannot get in the paper when the paper is ready for the press. The woman who utterly refuses to allow any notice of the wedding to be given, and the woman who is irate because the news of her late operation is omitted from the paper saying, "Why no one believes I had an operation, it wasn't in the News."

Pathos: faces of deep despair when advertising a loved one's cast-off tools, no longer needed since life itself has been cast off; frustration when unable to secure help needed sorely because of advancing years, or inability to secure a home for those kiddies, beloved, but such an inconvenience; bewilderment when unable to find any place to live that the business of living may be carried on—that is another deep impression.

Industry: unhurried, continuous, determined, definite, prolonged, necessary, work-loving, sacrificial work. Industry not alone for the sake of the pay, although that is of moment, but work for the sake of the ideal of living the American people have fostered and nurtured through long years of peace and short years of war. Industry, because it is the expression of the inner self, it is the way American people pass on their sense of values to the coming generation; industry because there is a definite ideal to be expressed, and it can best be expressed by giving of self to others in the manner perfected by the worker.

Civic pride: the city of one's adoption must be fine; it must carry on affairs of worth; its children must be surrounded with the means for wholesome growth; various civic clubs must be represented in an adequate manner, for they are the expression of some one's inner convictions expressed civicly; growth of spiritual-seeking organizations must be nurtured; it is a matter of pride to minister to the whole man of the community.

The place of the community paper in a rural community: as a mouth-piece for all sects and classes; as an interpreter of neighbor to neighbor; as a means of centering civic enterprises; as messenger to local patrons of personal matters concerning their neighbor, that they may lend the flood of their sympathetic joy or sorrow to augment that of others; a hand across the waters to boys in service, who write home nostalgically, "Keep the paper coming, mom, it's like a letter from home;" as a purveyor of news vital to the everyday life of the citizen; as a harbinger of good will to the stranger in our midst; as an advertisement to all and sundry of the kind of community we represent; as a market-place for the wares of the community; as a visit from a loyal friend and neighbor.

These ideas pass through my mind, as I think back over the past ten weeks. I treasure the contacts made, I value the lessons learned, I look forward longingly to going deeper into the halls of learning where the instructors are the citizens of my own home-town, in the disguise of readers of the local paper, of fellow workers patient with the mistakes of ignorance, of columnists who see clearly and think straight, and by means of the light they hold high point te way to pilgrims with shorter sight, of editor who knows, and still has infinite sympathy for stumbling feet in journalistic paths.

I am candidly proud to have been a part of the staff of The News for a time.

BACK THE ATTACK

Today, the United States is on the march. We are going forward on all fronts. One by one our enemies are feeling the might of our forces in the air, on the land and on the sea.

Time was, and not so long ago, when we spoke of "Defense" Bonds. That time is past . . . let's not permit it to return again. It won't, if we do not let down in our efforts.

Now, more than ever, it is important that you convert every dollar that you have, over and above your living expenses, into WAR BONDS.

Buy them regularly . . . and in increasing amounts. It is your opportunity to hasten victory and provide for your financial security for tomorrow.
